A. Dr. Ralph Dunham, of HEW, provided me with a courtesy copy of his preliminary report on faculty salaries in institutions of higher learning. Data cover 1962-63, both the academic year and the corresponding calendar year. The endless listing of salary tables is of little concern to us, but some of the summary facts should be of particular interest to some OTR faculty members. For example, if we compare the compensation schedule effective for Government employees in October 1962 with faculty salaries for the academic year reported on by Dunham, we can conclude:

- a. Median salaries, all ranks, were slightly above GS-12.
- b. Half of those with rank of professors had salaries greater than $12,500. This was slightly less than GS-14.
- c. Ten percent of the professors earned at least $18,000 back in 1962. The upper ten percent, salarywise, in biological sciences or psychology or health fields earned at least $19,700 or $20,500 or $25,000, respectively!

Unquestionably we have a sizeable contingent among OTR personnel who easily can command at least Associate Professorial rank; had they not left the campus many of these would have been long-time full Professors now. Return to the academic life does not loom unattractive now; particularly is this so since more and more colleges and universities are providing tuition-free education for one's college-age children.

B. Marcella referred [redacted] inquiry to me about charges for training conducted by either the Department of State or by the Agency for each other. I informed Ed that on some of these financial matters [redacted] is in a better position to know the exact answer, but that I could recall no instances wherein CIA charged State for the infrequent instruction given to them nor did I know of more than one or two cases

C. Wendell has completed an initial revision of [REDACTED] 25X1A

25X1A

[REDACTED] Copies of this preliminary revision have been referred to C/PPS, C/IS and C/SIC for comment and coordination. Because the revision omits provisions contained in the current [REDACTED] pertaining to A & E testing procedures, we are sending a copy through [REDACTED] to 25X1A9a the Medical Staff for information. We are also asking [REDACTED] to 25X1A9a coordinate the revision with respect to that part of EOD training concerned with Agency security. Finally, the revised regulation will be checked out with the Office of Personnel. We propose to have this last step of coordination handled through [REDACTED] who is simultaneously 25X1A9a working with OP in connection with Colonel White's expressed wish that a system be put into operation to monitor the scheduling of new employees for EOD training.
